NOTICE

With great pleasure, the Usha Martin University, Ranchi, Technical Club and Student Forum announce the approaching National Science Day celebration. Every year on February 28th, National Science Day honours the outstanding accomplishments of Sir C.V. Raman, the scientist who discovered the Raman Effect and was granted the 1930 Nobel Prize in Physics. This day is a great opportunity to reflect on the tremendous influence that science has on our daily lives as well as the priceless contributions that scientists have made to society.

In line with this, we are organizing a working model exhibition to pay tribute to the spirit of innovation and scientific inquiry. This year's event will focus on the theme "Basic Science for Sustainable Development" our aim is to instil a deeper appreciation for science and technology among our students through engaging activities and discussions. We extend a warm invitation to all staff members, instructors, and students to participate in this homage to the spirit of investigation and learning. Let us come together to celebrate the wonders of science and promote a culture of curiosity and discovery.

NOTICE

Usha Martin University, Ranchi's technical club and student forum are happy to announce that they would be celebrating National Science Day. Every year on February 28th, India celebrates National Science Day in honour of Sir C.V. Raman, who won the 1930 Nobel Prize in Physics for discovering the Raman Effect. Today is a good opportunity to reflect on the value of science in our lives and the enormous contributions that scientists have made to society. In keeping with this, we are planning a webinar to honour the spirit of innovation and science.

To honour the spirit of research and innovation, the event this year featured "Discovering Sustainable Options using Science and Innovation" as its topic of discussion. We want our kids to have a greater understanding of science and technology and be motivated to pursue careers in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) research through a variety of activities and discussions. All staff members, instructors, and students are cordially invited to take part in this homage. Celebrate the spirit of investigation and learning.
