Amitabh Choudhary Cricket Stadium: A Beacon of Cricketing Excellence in Ranchi

The Institution has the Amitabh Chaudhry Cricket Stadium within its serene campus. The Stadium is surrounded by the mighty Easter Ghats which stands as a significant testament to the fervour and passion for cricket that courses through the veins of this vibrant community. Spanning across a meticulously planned 3.5 acres of land, this stadium embodies the very essence of international cricketing standards, promising an immersive and exhilarating experience for both players and spectators alike.

Strategically situated at an optimal distance of 70 gauges from the wicket, the stadium's design epitomizes precision and attention to detail, ensuring that every aspect of the game is conducted with the utmost integrity and fairness. However, beyond its architectural brilliance, the true significance of the Amitabh Chaudhry Cricket Stadium lies in its role as a nurturing ground for local cricketing talent.

Playing Area Dimensions:

The playing area (boundary to boundary) adheres to international standards, with a diameter ranging from 137.16 meters to 150 meters. The shortest boundary from the cricket pitch is 59.43 meters, ensuring that batsmen face the challenge of clearing the ropes. The longest boundary cannot exceed 82.29 meters, providing ample space for breath-taking sixes.

Precision at 70 Yards:

The stadium's design is meticulous. It is strategically situated at an optimal distance of 70 yards (64 meters) from the centre of the pitch. This precision ensures that every boundary hit is a testament to skill and timing.

Grass Field Area:

The lush green outfield spans across 50 feet by 200 feet, covering a total area of 10,000 square feet (approximately 929 square meters). This meticulously maintained grass field is where legends chase down boundaries and fielders dive to save runs.

Length of the Wicket:

The cricket pitch—the hallowed strip where battles unfold—is 66 meters long. Here, bowlers unleash their craft, and batsmen dance to the rhythm of leather meeting willow.

Pitch Perfection: Balangir Soil

The very soul of cricket lies in its pitch, and the Amitabh Chaudhry Cricket Stadium boasts a pitch crafted from Balangir's distinctive black soil. This soil isn't just earth; it's a canvas where bowlers weave magic. Its unique properties provide bounce and speed, challenging batsmen and thrilling spectators alike.

Bounce, Boundaries, and Brilliance

Picture this: a bowler charging in, the ball rising sharply off the pitch, and the batsman's eyes widening. Yes, this pitch is not only bouncy but also a high-scoring paradise. Boundaries are met with roars, and sixes kiss the sky.

Greenery Nourished by Sprinklers

The outfield, a lush green expanse, owes its vibrancy to automated sprinklers. They dance across the grass, ensuring each blade receives its share of hydration. The outfield breathes, and cricket thrives.

Uniformity Under the Watchful Eye

Precision matters. The stadium's grass field is meticulously monitored—a symphony of green where no note is out of place. The curators, like maestros, trim, roll, and coax the grass to perfection.

Two-Lakh Litre Tank: The Lifeline

Hidden beneath the surface lies a two-lakh litre tank, a reservoir of life for the cricket ground. It quenches the thirst of the pitch, the outfield, and the dreams etched in every crease.

BCCI-Approved Curators: Guardians of the Pitch

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) nods approvingly. Their curators, akin to cricketing alchemists, tend to the pitch's soul. They understand its moods, its secrets, and its desire to witness centuries and hat tricks.

Grass Gallery: Where Cheers Echo

The stadium's grass gallery cradles spectators. Here, fans become part of the game, their voices merging with the wind. They cheer, they gasp, and they witness history unfold.

CCTV Vigilance: Guardians of Integrity

Beyond the boundary ropes, the stadium's vicinity is under CCTV surveillance. Every movement, every celebration, and every decision is recorded—a silent promise to uphold the spirit of the game.
